TerraBloom Project Launch

TerraBloom: Hands in the Earth, Eyes on the Future
PROJECT NUMBER: 2024-3-EL02-KA153-YOU-000268979

The Erasmus+ KA153-YOU project TerraBloom: Hands in the Earth, Eyes on the Future has officially started, bringing together youth organisations and youth workers from six European countries with a shared vision: empowering young people through sustainable agriculture, environmental awareness, and community engagement.

The project is coordinated by the organization INSTITUTO PROOTHISIS KAI PISTOPOIISIS PROIONTON AGRODIATROFIS and involves partners from Romania, Italy, Czechia, Hungary, and Spain.

TerraBloom was created in response to growing environmental challenges, youth unemployment, and the increasing disconnect between young people and nature. Through non-formal education and practical learning experiences, the project aims to strengthen youth work practices while promoting sustainability, social inclusion, and active citizenship.

The project particularly focuses on supporting young people from marginalized and disadvantaged backgrounds, including youth from rural areas, economically vulnerable communities, and participants with fewer opportunities.
